

The flames spread so rapidly that it was quite impossible to remove to safety the heaps which furnished the only fuel the shipwrecked people
had. (Page 130).